

A BOMBARDMENT.

Sampson's Fleet Still Pounding the Batteries at Mouth of Santiago Harbor.

ONLY EL MORRO FORT WAS SPARED.

The Dynamite Cruiser Vesuvius Was Given Another Chance and Did Great Damage.

A Charge of Gun Cotton Exploded on Coco Smith and a Hole Big Enough to Hold a Church Was Blown Out of the Side of the Fort.

OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, June 15, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 17.—R.R. Adm. Sampson's fleet bombarded the batteries at the mouth of Cuba for the third time at daylight this morning. For hours the ships pounded the batteries at the right and left of the entrance, only sparing El Morro, where Lieut. Hobson and his companions of the Merrimac are in prison.

The western batteries against which the main assault was directed, were badly wrecked. One was utterly destroyed. In others many guns were dismounted.

At first the Spaniards answered passionately and wildly, but impotently. Then most of the guns were deserted. Not a ship was struck, nor a man injured on the American side.

It is believed that the enemy's loss of life was heavy.

As a preliminary to the hammering given to the batteries, the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius last night at midnight gave them another chance. Three 250 pound charges of gun cotton were sent over the fortifications at the entrance. The design was to drop them in the bay, around the angle back of the eminence on which El Morro is situated, where it was known that the Spanish torpedo boat destroyers were lying. Two charges went true, as no reports were heard—a peculiarity of the explosion of gun cotton.

What the damage was, or whether the batteries were demolished, is not known but the destructive area of gun cotton is large and it would not be surprising if it is subsequently ascertained that one or both were destroyed.

The third charge exploded with terrible violence on Cayo Smith. From where the fleet lay the entrance to the harbor looked, in the black night, like a long white glow through a window.

A torpedo boat from aTitanic furnace. A crater big enough to hold a church was blown out of the side of the Cayo Smith and was clearly seen from the ships this morning.

Adm. Sampson issued the orders for the bombardment last night. Coffee was served to the men at half-past three this morning and with the first blush of dawn the men were called quietly to quarters. The ships steamed in five knot speed to a 3,000 yards range, while the gunboats, gunboats, gunboats, distance of three cable lengths separated them. They were strung out in the form of a crescent, the heavy fighting ships in the center, the flagship on the right flank and the Massachusetts on the left flank. The line remained stationary throughout the bombardment. The Vixen and Scorpion took up positions on opposite flanks, close in shore for the purpose of holding the infantry that might fire upon the ships.

Fifteen minutes later at 6:30 a.m. the New York opened with a broadside from her main battery at the works on the east of the entrance to the harbor. All the ships followed in red streaks of flame. The fleet enveloped in smoke, pelted the hills and kicked up dirt and masonry. It was a magnificent spectacle from where the Dauntless lay. Though the gun captains had been cautioned not to waste ammunition but to fire with deliberation, the fire was so rapid that there was an almost continuous report. The measured crash of the big 13-inch guns of the battle ships sounded above the rattle of the guns of the secondary batteries like thunder claps above the din of a hurricane. A strong land breeze from shore carried the smoke of the ships seaward, while it let down a thick curtain in front of the Spanish gunners.

The guns responded spiritedly at first, but their frenzied, half crazed fire could not match the cool nerve trained eyes and skilled gunnery of the American sailors. Our fire was much more effective than in preceding bombardments. The admiral's orders expert had given the batteries orders to reduce the powder charges and to elevate the guns, so as to shorten the trajectory and thus to secure a plunging fire. As the shells in the preceding bombardments dropped with the almost straight trajectories of projectiles with full charges, it was almost impossible to plant them. They would shoot over them, the air, past the batteries owing to the high elevation, and fall far over the fortifications, the effect of the reduced charges was marvellous. In 15 minutes one western battery was completely wrecked. The Massachusetts tore a gaping hole in the emplacement with a thousand pound projectile and the Texas dropped a shell into the powder magazine. The explosion wrought terrible havoc.

The frame was lifted, the sides were blown out and a shower of debris flew every direction. One timber, carried out of the side of the battery, went flying down the hill. The loss of life was very great.

The batteries on the east of Morro were hard to get at, but the New Orleans crossed the bows of the New York to within 500 yards of shore and played a tattoo with her long eight-inch rifles, hitting them repeatedly, striking a gun squarely muzzle-on, lifting it off its trunnions and sending it sweeping somersaults high in the air.

The destruction and death at the western batteries must have been appalling. Many of the guns had been mounted during the last two days. From this it is inferred that Adm. Cervera had given up all hope of extracting himself from the trap in which he is caught and had removed the guns from some of his ships to strengthen the land defenses.

Washington, June 17.—The work of the Cubans in reinforcing the marines at Guantanamo and particularly in occupying Aceraderos is receiving unstinted praise from officials here. Recently Queen Victoria and the Cuban officials had a meeting before the reports. Mr. Quesada said Thursday that the Cuban had not seen fit to reply to criticism current during the last few weeks as to the ineffectiveness of the Cuban soldiers, as they knew the criticisms were due to an ignorance of the careful plans, largely matured at Washington, by which the Cuban forces were to execute their part of the well considered program.

“Now, now, now, the Cuban flag is floating over Aceraderos,” continued Mr. Quesada, “all the criticisms are answered. Aceraderos is about 15 or 20 miles west of Santiago and is the port for the great iron and copper mines of that locality. It should not be confounded with Aquadore, another suburban town to the southeast of Santiago. But it is even more important, from a strategic standpoint, than Aquadore, as it has exceptional landing facilities.

“The achievement of Gen. Rabi in making a forced march from Bayamo is characteristic of the dash and military genius of that officer. He is chief of staff to Garcia, and has the rank of general of a division, which is midway between your brigadier general and major general. He is about 45 years of age, thin, thin, thin, and knows little of war. He takes pride in the fact that he is partly of Indian descent, and he has the natural fighting capacity of an Indian. He made a name for himself during the last Cuban war, and soon took high rank when the present war broke out. When Gen. Martinez Campos thought to make short work of the present war, he sent him to lead the assault on Ciudad Bolívar and Paralejo, where he met Gen. Rabi with a Cuban army smaller than that of Campos. But in each of those notable engagements Rabi outgeneraled Martinez Campos, the recognized military genius of Spain. It led Campos himself to declare that in Rabi he had met a soldier worthy of his best efforts.

“He is fighting Aceraderos. Gen.

Rabi had with him about 1,000 men, while Garcia is coming up with 5,000 to 6,000 more Cubans. The march of Rabi can hardly be appreciated by any one not familiar with the mountains, swamps and tangled tropical vegetation through which he pushed his way from Bayamo to Aceraderos. It is exceedingly gratifying to Cubans that the Spaniard showed such immediate recognition of the merit, and should officially report in such complimentary terms to the navy department.”

Two Thousand Spaniards Outside the American Camp at Guantanamo Who Want to Surrender.

CAMP MC CALLA, Guantanamo Bay, June 15, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 17.—During the afternoon a half-starved and ragged Spanish soldier crawled into camp and gave himself up. He said he expected to be shot, but the Spaniards would not do that. They would give him food and water. He had had neither for 48 hours.

He reported that there were 3,000 Spanish soldiers, half starved, who wanted to give themselves up, but that they believed that they would be killed by the Americans as soon as they were once in camp.

The Spaniard was given a good meal and new clothing and was then taken on board the Marblehead. He declared that he would gladly go back and report to his comrades, but that they would certainly shoot him. He is now held as a prisoner on the Marblehead.

The Marblehead's little steam launch cleared out a detachment of Spanish bushwhackers this afternoon and escaped without the loss of a man after a hot engagement of a number of an hour. The Spaniard had been in the harbor near the fort for mines, had found one and was towing it back to the Marblehead when the enemy, concealed in the bushes on the shore, opened a hot fire on the men in the launch. The launch headed toward shore and began banging away, but the bow gun became dead. The Spaniard was hit in the leg and died.

He was brought ashore and the marine was seeing wildly. The marine was promptly rescued. It is believed that several Spaniards were killed.

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY.

Report of the Work Done by the Maysville Branch—Good Showings.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society has taken from Maysville and vicinity the following children—Lyda Greyson, Etta Mackiefresh, Belle Mackiefresh, Lillie Mackiefresh, Irene Grey and Willie Limerick.

In a letter from Superintendent William Shoosmith of June 24, he states that all these children now have good homes but one. Those in authority who may wish more definite information regarding the children must inquire of the President or Secretary or the State Superintendent.

The following is the list of members by virtue of their having paid $1 or more to the Kentucky Children's Home Society:

THE INDIANS!

They Certainly Had the Old Town Last Night.

RED FIRE AND PLENTY TO EAT.

The great trail of the aborigines passed over our streets last night amid the glare of red fire which came from the spruce and the pine.

The Tribes were in war paint and feathers, having brought the papoose as a miliary should the pipe of peace fail to favorably bow to appear the wrath of the progressive paleface.

There have been trials, then again there have not been trials, but certainly to the latter class last night's Wyandotte entertainment does not belong.

From the sixth sleep to the sixth dawning the whoop and war cry of the Redmen were heard, making the night hideous and palefaces to seek the cover of their abodes—but of logs in which they dwelt, with the flint lock ready over the door, while a strict vigil is kept within—eyes ever at the prep-holes scanning the surrounding wood for the creeping, soft-footed devil who lurk and stealthily stand upon the settlers who, with the march of progress, dispense barbarity and rude way of living by transplanting them with human deeds, charity and intelligence.

Giantenoma, Monadnock apn. Whoop who with Minnehaba and Wangam, following close came little pappoose strapped to the board with cords, while on the back he gall rode with his shrill cry of waaee, waaee. The Medicine Man with herbs and kettle. The Wild Maid Lover with club for battle. The Pochontos girls in brass bedecked with beads and moccasins, sandals and crowns, while over them all in warrior-like men, the whoop and club were flung.

To the glare of the light and the beat of the kettle these Indians marched to the tune of "Me-na me-e me-na me-no no," ominous, guttural gibberish, crazy, wild and uncouth, laggard and lazy, rearing and plunging on bridles horse, with blanket to cover their persons, the mighty clubs swing, the Chiefs' whoops ring and the swoop of the inhabitants of the wilds is made and poor pacificer is captured, whose scalp pays the penalty they exact for the lack of the red in his face. Forth to the Wigwam they bear him away amid shouts which ominous a transport joyless, fierce and direful, but by degrees he learns that his fate is not so hard after once adopted, for dressed in the costume of a son of the forest he stands to march against the scene which now stands open before him. The banquet is spread and the tables all groan with their weight of edibles daintly served and bountifully supplied. Mine Host Willett arranged his dining room with those tempting viands which whet a dull appetite and make gourmands of all these Indians.

At 11 o'clock the banquet begins and continued with unabated zeal until the smaller hours which make revelry case, and thus only by force of circumstances was stopped one of the most successful trials which Redmenhood in Kentucky has enjoyed.

The great showing of visitors in the line and on the streets made the old town wild with festivity and glad with joy.

The Manchester Tribe arrived by boat, having on board the regular Indians as well as the Uniforms. Rank of Redmen, a gallant, handsomely apparelled lot of men who made a fine show in the parade.

Bradyville, Aberdeen, Bentown and other towns came in force, while Augusta's Paughcaughnaughisque were to come by their own boat, but it getting crippled—the name clanged the shaft—the Manchester boys quickly sailed down a belle after them.

They soon arrived in great strength with a fine band of music, which with a fine band of music, which with fully heavy with sweet sound.

Policeman "Doc" Wallace was the unfortunate paleface who lost his scalp,

Very likely his chair at the table will be

Liver Trouble

When the yellow flag of quarantine is hoisted over a dwelling it means disease and danger. So when the yellow flag flies in the face—when the cheek is allow and the clear white of the eye is dyed saffron—then is danger. It is liver trouble. The liver is one of the most important organs of the body. On the proper discharge of its functions depend human health and happiness. When the liver fails of its duty, poisons at once begin to generate, and other organs of the body become involved. Never neglect the liver if you value health. If you are suffering from liver trouble, begin at once the use of Dr. W.'s Pills and you will find prompt relief and permanent cure.

"I was so weakened by liver trouble that I could scarcely lift my head. While in this condition I took Dr. W.'s Liver Pills, and finding almost immediate benefit, continued their use until I was cured of my complaint."

not used for some time—the mantle-piece is more proper.

With toasts and music, happy speeches and many beautiful women of Augustas and Manchester to grace the occasion surely nothing was lacking at the Trail of the Redmen to make it a great go.

The rain might have come away for a little time, but even that came down.
